

DePaul's Hockey Club Scores Big

“SHOOTING FOR A CURE”

RMWP Chairman Jim Locaciato was impressed by the accuracy both Vince and Michael displayed. “It's no wonder DePaul's Hockey team is being recognized as an up and coming force in the Midwest. These guys were burying the golf ball in the cup regardless of where it was on the green. Putting aside other obligations to help individuals they don't know is a credit not only to their hockey team, but DePaul University as well. These students and hockey players were true gentleman and we were all impressed by their compassion and conduct throughout the event. I only wish I could have come a little closer to the cup.”
